Mrs. Roosevelt has never let up in her busy tour of Britain since she arrived. This was just one of a series of engagements for one day --- visit to a nursery where children are looked after while mothers are on war work. Other children Mrs. Roosevelt saw had been made orphans by German air raids on this country. America's first lady also met for the first time three child evacuees whom she had herself adopted. The younger boy is the son of a London stoker. DUCHESS OF KENT.

The Duchess of Kent has been visiting a training depot for Wrens --- her first public appearance since the flying accident in which the Duke of Kent lost his life. With Mrs. Laughton Matthews, Her Royal Highness inspected these quarters where everything is done for the comfort and convenience of these Navy Girls. It's good to see the Duchess about again, though she carries a bereavement that many British wives and mothers share with her.

ZERO FIGHTER CAPTURED.

A Japanese Zero fighter, captured in the Aleutians, has been repaired ready for inspection by America's Naval Air Experts. It was found to have plenty of speed and manoeuvrability, but almost no protection for the pilot. It wasn't to be expected that the Japanese war lords would care much about the safety of the men who fight the battles: human lives mean very little to them --- even the lives of their own people.
