AA Barthelemy

This is ~~the~~^{one} type of man who is joining the fighting forces of the Empire; a farmer in the Northern Provinces who leaves the fields to become a soldier. Training with the Nigeria Regiment quickly turns a simple countryman into a first class fighting unit --- tough, courageous and enduring.

SULTAN OF MOROCCO.

Token of good relations in North Africa --- a visit by the Sultan of Morocco to Allied ships in the harbour at Casablanca. The Sultan was accompanied by his son and made a tour of inspection of this scene of operations where the Allies got in one jump ahead of the Axis.

WRECKED AIRCRAFT.

Castel Benito --- the great airport near Tripoli. This is a satisfying picture that can be left to speak for itself.

FLYING JEEPS.

The United States Army is now using a small aircraft affectionately known as the Flying Jeep. It has a speed somewhere in the neighbourhood of 90 miles an hour and it's very cheap to build. A jolly little thing --- and very useful. But can't you imagine what a curse it'll be if everybody has one after the war.
