U.S.ARMY ENTERTAIN ROYAL PARTY.

Lady Louis Mountbatten received the King and Queen and the two Princesses when they went to see the special American show in aid of British Service Charities. The all-male cast is drawn entirely from the ranks of the American army, plus the famous song-writer, Irving Berlin. The packed house gave a great reception to the Royal Family who occupied a box with Lady Louis Mountbatten, and Lt.General Devers, Commanding the American Army in the European Theatre.

Irving Berlin sang one of his own songs which is dedicated to the British fighting man with plenty of sentiment.

And then the high spot of the show --- the big minstrel number with its singing-and-dancing all-male chorus.
