

BOMBING AND SHELLING THE ENEMY.

1038

Baltimore Bombers of the Tactical Air Force working with the Fifth Army in Italy; squadrons of twelve have been detailed to go out and blast the enemy's gun positions; the German artillery is well hidden, but the air attacks are finding it, and destroying it.

Another load of bombs goes down in a long and graceful arc towards the enemy on the ground; a long pause, between the ~~bomb-release~~ bomb-release and the explosion; but the target gets it in the end.

On the ground terrific bombardments by our own guns are withering ~~the~~ enemy positions. Observers say it's a heavier concentration of fire than it was at Alamein. And that's something.

Newsreel cameraman Jim Wright flew over the enemy lines in a baby plane to film the result; ~~despite~~ ^{to pay for} the risk he took, ~~he didn't~~ get very satisfactory results, but those shells are bursting among Germans in Monte Camino.

He didn't
