

1075
PRINCESS ELIZABETH.

One of the last public engagements for Princess Elizabeth before her coming of age --- at the age of 18; a visit to the Sea Scout Exhibition in London. The Exhibition was held at the London Scottish Drill Hall and the Princess wore the uniform of a Sea Ranger. No easy job to meet new people every day and ~~he~~ interested in their interests --- but its always been a gift with Britain's Royal Family --- and it's a corner stone in our Empire's foundation.

BUS STRIKE.

Soldier drivers and conductors on the buses; regular drivers and conductors in the garage; that's the London version of the crop of strikes preceding the Second Front in Europe. ~~Most of the deputy busmen are members of the Eighth Army.~~ The newsreel is no place for discussing the rights and wrongs of industrial dispute; but shan't we all look sippy if the soldiers go on strike!

GERMAN BABY TANKS.

One of Hitler's newest secret weapons --- the Goliath Tank --- so miscalled because the Nazi party wouldn't recognize that David got the best of it. It's a baby tank, loaded with explosive --- driven to the Allied lines by remote-control cable. First used at the Anzio beachhead in February --- and failed. Worst of all, the Allied soldiers call it a "Doodlebug."

YUGOSLAVS.

Film interview with some of the gallant soldiers of Yugoslavia, where Marshal Tito has been giving Hitler such headaches. They were wounded ~~with men + women~~ fighting in their homeland. Now in Malta they are recovering --- and spending their convalescence learning about new weapons to kill Germans.