

SOVIET AWARDS.

1104.

The Soviet Ambassador presents his country's awards to men of Britain's fighting services and the Merchant Navy. The Order of Suvorov; the Order of Alexander Nevsky; the Order of the Patriotic War; for services with which our men have aided Russia. In the hour when the Red Army is driving German armies backwards into Germany, the Soviet Union <sup>gives</sup> ~~gives~~ graceful thanks.

ROCKET GUNS.

Motion pictures made by Germans and captured from them on the Russian front; rocket guns in action.

Multiple barreled monsters that look very violent, and no doubt they are. But they aren't good enough to beat the Red Army and they wouldn't be good enough to beat us.

BEAUFIGHTERS ATTACK.

Royal Air Force pictures of some of the operations against Germany; an attack by Beaufighters of Coastal Command on a large enemy convoy. Cold conditions in the air have done their best to ruin the picture, but it shows that the conditions below in the enemy convoy are very hot.

PENICILLIN.

From a Canadian factory comes the story of production of one of the greatest of modern discoveries in medicine. Penicillin. Sterilization in an oven followed by the process of inoculation and incubation. Penicillin is mass produced. And it is going out in quantity to the fighting fronts, to reduce the danger of infection by germs in wounds. Thousands of lives have been saved by this ~~drug~~ drug; it is one of the things that have made this war slightly less hideous than was expected.
