The Cutty Sark

London - where General Sir Frederick Browning sails down-river to Greenhithe, ^{close to} the training ship "Worcester" - ~~passed ship to~~ ^{lies} the "Cutty Sark"; the last of the great sailing ships which raced their cargoes to Britain in the days when steam was making slow progress as a rival. At the wheel ^{of the Cutty Sark} was one of the last apprentices to serve in her - Captain Irving. General Browning is Chairman of the Preservation and Maintenance Fund, which has been opened (with the Duke of Edinburgh as Patron) to restore the eighty year-old veteran and maintain her on a permanent site. ~~Of course,~~ ^{of course,} the "Cutty Sark" will play her part in the Coronation Festivities during the Royal River Pageant.

Korea

Korea - where "freedom trains" carrying sick and wounded Allied prisoners are now arriving at Panmunjom... In this final rehearsal, ambulances are waiting and ready to rush the "returned men" to base hospital for treatment. It's a great day for men of the United Nations, as they watch their plans take shape, at the start of the road back to health and happiness... Scenes that give rise to hopes that peace cannot be far away. Following the exchange and the ~~hoped-for~~ end of hostilities, President Eisenhower tells newsmen in Washington, how the world could benefit from real peace. SOUND.
