Picturesque wedding at Blenheim Palace

30th June 53

LOCAL

Wedding bells at Blenheim Palace, the stately home of the Duke of Marlborough. And a Royal guest, too, Princess Margaret, leaving for the wedding of Lady Rosemary Spencer-Churchill, the Duke's youngest daughter, at Christ Church Cathedral, Oxford

Early arrivals for the ceremony include the Bride's young attendants - seven bridesmaids and five tiny pages.

And four minutes early comes the Bride on the arm of her Father. Lady Rosemary's gown is of white embroidered organdie, with a trailing bouquet of white gardenias.

After the service, the Bride and her groom, Mr Robin Moir, a 28 year-old Stockbroker, ^{RETURNED TO} leaves for Blenheim Palace, where nearly a thousand guests attend the reception

Princess Margaret joins the family occasion. While the Bride (who was a Coronation Maid of Honour to the Queen) ^{RECEIVES HER HUSBAND'S KISS IN} ~~and~~ ^{CUTTING THE CAKE,}

An apt moment for us to wish them - many happy days ahead.
