

A Poultry Show in December? Is somebody sticking their neck out or do they hope that we'll all get chicken-hearted and meat meat instead? (2)

Anyway, these Christmas dinners were on view at the world's largest Poultry Show at Olympia, though some wore blinkers; it stops them from looking death in the face. SEEING HOW NEAR IT IS TO THE FESTIVE DATE.

Happiest birds in a Show of over three thousand entries were the day-old chicks. ~~The others just seem to be pecking at their food as if some day~~

~~somebody will be at a time like this, there doesn't seem to be any point in~~
AND CONVEYOR BELT - FEEDING SYSTEMS WERE OF GREAT INTEREST TO THE MODERN POULTRY FARMER.

Another sign of the season, the London Schools Carol Festival, at the Royal Festival Hall, on South Bank. The choir consisted of three thousand children from six hundred schools in the capital - who raised their voices in the age-old celebration of Christmas. SOUND
