2114 The Centenary Boat Race 5th April 54 Putney: A time-honoured challenge is renewed on London's Biver, the Centenary Boat Race. Cambridge has won 54 times and Oxford 44; but still each generation stakes its choice - in both shades of blue... direct the favoured. Surrey station. Be Cambridge; the because the pre-race favourites. Tense moments - then - they're away - with Oxford seeming faster-off-the mark. From our following launch, we watch the early battle for mastery. Ahead of a great battle. Oxford are fighting to hold their rivals - and then take advantage of that wide Hammersmith bend. faminidgexeest xgain xax 1 aad Cambridge strive to draw ahead and, if possible, cross to the Surrey side ... Up to Hammersmith Bridge - with Oxford in a happy position. They've not only held their rivals - they're about half-a-length up. the Deriver and the set of the set of the set ALL PARTY The straggitte Chiswick Reach brings a head wind and rough water. Cambridge, in mid-stream get the worst of the buffeting - loster their raythm. Oxford draw ahead. The rough conditions prove the swan-song of the Light Blues The seal and the second of the second the second the second second and the second second NOW THE RACE & VIRTUALLY OVER. ridice the 111 the race is over. Oxford, rowing ma jestically, despine IND LASGED WATER conditions, reach Barnes Bridge. Over four lengths behind, Cembridge, struggle to make up the leeway - Intrinstanting and the second Sumeranity. Up to the finish - Oxford now four-and-a-half lengths ahead. Cambridge still battling gamely - beaten by a better crew - who took the rought, with the smooth, in their stride. The Centenary Race for Oxford, They wanted first xThatratitaxancess their 45th victory.

The second with the second second and the second seco lie four-and-a-quarter gruelling miles - and right now - there > prospect