

Russian elections

Russia: Unusual pictures from behind the Iron Curtain, Polling Day in the Soviet Union. 120 million people went along to the Voting Booths, to elect thirteen-hundred deputies to the Supreme Soviet.

Here, Mr Molotov, the Foreign Minister ~~XXXXXX~~ makes his choice. And in another Division of Moscow, Premier Malenkov recorded his vote. ~~It may come as a~~ <sup>Some people might</sup>

6- surprised to know that Russia stages elections. But it's no surprise which Party wins. Each district has only one candidate.

Inca Princess

Chile: From a cave in the Andes comes a link with the past, the frozen remains of an Inca Girl - thought to have died about 500 years ago, and preserved by the <sup>perpetual</sup> eternal cold.

Scientists believe the Mummy to be that of an Inca Princess because of ~~XXXXXX~~ gold and silver <sup>items</sup> relics that were found near the body ~~XXXXXX~~ <sup>in 175</sup> mountain-top shrine.

The Incas were the ancient Rulers of Peru, and delicately-embroidered moccasins on the feet of the Princess confirm the ~~XXXXXX~~ artistry and culture of this bygone civilization.

Susan Ball wedding

California: A story of faith and courage, the wedding of film actress Susan Ball. Last January, Susan had her right leg amputated, following a long illness; but she <sup>declined</sup> vowed that she would walk to the Altar to marry Actor Dick Long.

And for Susan - this is the happy sequel to long weeks of suffering. At the reception - there was a long line of congratulations for the Bride and Groom - and heartfelt wishes for long years of health...and happiness.