

2173

London: Synthetic lace for lingerie

29th Oct. 54

London: Bedtime fashions at Hamilton House, Piccadilly, and whether it's early to bed or early to rise, this quilted house-coat in red rayon satin, will warm those leisure moments. And beneath the coat? Retiring charm for the teen-ager - a white crepe pyjama with a lace yoke.

This display of lovely lingerie and lace is fashioned from man-made fibres. A diaphanous nylon nightgown, (trimmed with lace and worn with a matching jacket) - reveals the feminine grace of these synthetic fabrics.

Now we go behind the scenes - where the model builds on a sure foundation, and this garment, made from black nylon lace, built over pink nylon, is the basic principle of good dress-sense.

Moulding the ~~ever~~-changing figure of fashion - a black foundation garment of nylon lace over pink tulle provides the lines for the new "H" Look.

No longer need red-flannel night-attire greet the new dawn. Fashion and central heating have brought the short pyjama look, in waffle cotton, trimmed with delicate lace.

Finally, an eye-opener for the girl who thinks that glamorous ends with good-night - on the doorstep. A lace-trimmed negligee and matching night-dress in black nylon suzette. Man-made fabrics to capture all feminine hearts...