Dockyard mishap

Kent: This is the Chatham Dockyard from which the Submarine Talent was swept across the River Medway by the sudden inrush of water when a steel caisson collapsed. The force of the water carried the caisson to the opposite end of the dock.

At the time, the dry dock was crowded with workers for the Talent was undergoing a major refit. The vessel finally came to rest on a mud-bank on the opposite side of the river and has since been refloated.

unhappily, four men lost their lives.
