

First stop - Montreal! In darkness - the Stratocruiser "Canopus" touches down to refuel - after a thirteen hour Atlantic flight.

~~In~~ In sub-zero weather - a little group (hoping to catch a glimpse of Princess Margaret for the first time on Canadian soil) waited in vain. Less than an hour later - Canopus roared on its way.

Second stop - Jamaica! And at wind-swept Montego Bay - the waiting Islanders were rewarded as the Princess ~~ix~~ ^{was} greeted by the Governor - Sir Hugh Foot. ~~Here~~ Here - informality was the keynote of the brief stay: Then - off again - on the last lap of the flight.

Ahead lay Trinidad - ~~in the distance~~ - and far below, the yacht "Britannia" - soon to link the islands with Royal memories.

Journey's End. ~~At the airport~~ "Canopus" comes into land - amid happy cheers of welcome from a ^{HUGE} crowd that had waited many hours in blazing heat.

~~and~~ Then the Governor presented Lady Rance, whom the Princess ^{had} met as a child.

Over to the Parade Ground to inspect the Guard of Honour of giant Trinidad Policemen, in gleaming spiked helmets. Her Royal Highness is wearing a ^{full-skirted} cream silk dress with ~~full skirt~~ and a tiny pleated hat. A gracious thank-you to the Canadian Pilot of Canopus, and the members of his crew.

Then - after an Address of Welcome from the Governor - the Princess expressed her delight at being in the West Indies.

~~and~~ Before leaving the Airport - the presentation of many leading citizens.

The first engagement of the Royal Tour was a visit to the Arima race-course. ~~At the race-course~~

Here - large crowds saw the Princess for the first time in ^{THEIR MIDST} ~~the~~ ~~crowd~~ and little Maureen Subero conveyed their greeting - with flowers!

After an Address from the Mayor and songs from the schoolchildren - the drive to Government House - Part of Spain, the Capital.

After an address from the Mayor and songs from the schoolchildren - the drive to Government House, Port of Spain, where the Princess stayed, ~~arriving~~ during her five-day visit to Trinidad - the second largest island in the British West Indies.
