2204

News flashes 15th Feb. 1955

Italian visitors

London: At Victoria Station, Ministerial visitors to Britain were greeted by the Foreign Secretary, Sir Anthony Eden. They are the Italian Premier Signor Scelba and his Foreign Minister, Signor Martino.

The first Italian Prime Minister to come to Britain since the war, Signor Scelba will have top-level talks during his five-day visit.

Another goodwill occasion - a Foyle's Luncheon (with [redacted]; Douglas Fairbanks as Chairman) to honour Anglo-American friendship.

Sir Beverley Baxter was among the guests and [redacted] LISTENING TO her husband [redacted] stress the vital need for continuing [redacted] friendship, [redacted] WAS MRS HERBERT MORRISON. (SOUND)

Comet

Good news for British Civil Aviation - the Comet Jet Airliner will fly again. After a six-week inquiry into past failures - suggested new modifications will make the Comet one of the world's safest aircraft.

Chief Test pilot Cunningham [redacted] HAS THIS TO SAY [redacted] SOUND.

Duke's visit to East Coast

Lincolnshire: Two years ago, the Duke of Edinburgh visited Mablethorpe [redacted] and Sutton bringing comfort to bereaved and homeless victims after the tragic East Coast floods.

Now he returned and walked along the rebuilt Promenade to unveil a granite plaque commemorating his visit.

The Duke had come to inspect the completed sea defences and congratulated everyone concerned on a great achievement.

[redacted] walking [redacted] along the new sea wall a sizable crowd followed the Royal Visitor.

A call was made on the district's oldest married couple, Mr and Mrs Richard Silcock who raised the flood-alarm on that fatal night.

[redacted] OVER A million pounds have been spent on rebuilding the resorts- a new-look welcome for summer visitors.