Dublin: Irish Blouse fashions

18th March 1955

from eighty-

Irish fashions - inspired by the famous Book of Kells and its eighthcentury craftsmanship - were on show when the first Blouse restival, opened in publin.

2213

here's "Cherry Blossom Time" - a blouse in Gyleen Sheer, a new rayon-yarn material - embroidered in Switzerland, with designs taken from the historic book.

A similar combination is featured in "Spring Bouquets The blouse has a soft shawl collar on a pin-tucked yoke .... slotted with velvet ribbon, This model lives up to its name "Elegance" The Swiss embroidery, by the way, was done at St. Gall, named after the 7th century Irish Saint, who founded a monastery there.

Binally, the formal look to match that tailored skirt. An ew material, embellished in Switzerland, with motifs from the wells of markes Trish history - to the fashion headlines.

Now - a breathtaking study in white - a nylon net dress, worn by miss Irma Hart - at her London wedding. NADE

Store opened the second second by four yards of material is styled in forty-three tiers with fortythousand sequins.

From a picture bride to old-world fantasy, as the setting of "Paris in the Spring" starts the annual search for that Easter Bonnet.

At this montreal show, the "Hula Hat" in natural-coloured straw, has a detachable grass skirt.

This embroidered straw cloche, in green, trimmed with pink roses - can double as a handbagi the exotic

For these summer days "Palm Beach" surely fills the bill: The picture hat in a window frame - answering the call of the new season. Ever original, when Spring goes to her head, Eve gets cracking with bags Popcorn help to feed her vanity, while she scatters caution to the breeze.