

Surrey: The first public demonstration of Britain's new armoured giant - the mighty "Conqueror" - the sixty-five ton tank that packs a punch to match its size.

The new heavyweight showed its paces at the Fighting Vehicle Research Establishment at Chobham - and here, for comparison, the 49-ton Centurion joins the picture.

Many of the Conqueror's details are still undisclosed - including the size of that gun - but it certainly makes a big secret!

Designed to add increased striking power to the Centurion force, the Conqueror carries a crew of four, and will shortly undergo ~~extensive~~ troop trials, with the British Army, in Germany.

NOW - a new "British conqueror of the air" - the Bristol "Britannia" ^{type} ~~turbo-~~ ^{TURBO-}prop airliner - arriving in Johannesburg, after its ~~incredible~~ ^{Wonderful} 6,000 mile flight from Britain - in under nineteen hours. ~~airliner~~ ^{airliner} in Africa, to undergo exhaustive tropical tests, the ~~Britannia~~ carried over forty officials and technicians: ~~xxxxxxxWing-Commanderxxxx~~

Here's her pilot, Wing-Commander Gibb.

^{With her} ~~Combining~~ long range ⁺ with high ~~speeding~~ speeds, the "Britannia" ~~is~~ ^{is hailed as} ~~xxxxxxx~~ ^{a future} ~~scheduled~~ as a proud and speedy link with the Commonwealth.
