

Fire-fighting demonstration

Middlesex: Every year, disastrous fires in oil and petrol storage tanks cost many millions of pounds. Now, after long months of brilliant research, a British firm has perfected an automatic device for controlling such outbreaks.

It consists of a container, filled with vaporising liquid, that floats, permanently, on the surface of the tank. It is fitted with rotating sprayers.

Then, when fire breaks out, the flames set the <sup>apparatus</sup> ~~apparatus~~ in action spraying the liquid evenly, over the ~~burning~~ <sup>burning</sup> oil, until ~~it~~ <sup>a dangerous blaze</sup> is extinguished.

Valiant in Australia

Australia greets the largest jet bomber ever seen "Down Under". It's the mighty Vickers "Valiant" - arriving at Sydney, after a record flight from Perth of three hours ~~thirty~~ <sup>twenty</sup>-three minutes.

The first of Britain's proposed force of V-Bombers to enter <sup>WILL UNDERTAKE BOMB BALLISTIC</sup> squadron service with the R.A.F., the "Valiant" ~~is on a proving flight and will~~ <sup>TRIALS AT WOOMERA, AND JOIN AUSTRALIA'S AIR FORCE COMMEMORATION WEEK.</sup> take part in ~~the Force Commemoration Week~~.

German Police sports

Germany: One hundred thousand citizens of Berlin gathered in the spacious Olympic Stadium to watch the annual show - put on by the West German Police.

All branches of the Force were represented - including the Canine P.C's who, (like those in Britain) have become invaluable assistants to the "man on the beat".

The combination teams were so speedy - that they didn't even stop to change a tyre.

This, of course, might well be described as the "balance of power".

Hey - but wait a minute - have you got a licence?
