

Flying North to inspect Canada's Arctic defences, which extend across the North West Territories, the Governor-General, Mr Vincent Massey, was welcomed to an Eskimo settlement at Hall Lake - with a gift of Walrus tusks.

During a seventeen-day, ten thousand mile tour, the Governor-General shared the daily life of the scattered communities - even to trying his hand at fishing. But the wily Arctic trout evidently had ~~the~~ <sup>HIS</sup> ~~EXCELLENCY~~ visitor dangling on a bit of string.

~~During the visit - (which included a flight over the North Pole) the Eskimos entertained their distinguished guest with a traditional Drum~~

With work already under way on further defence installations - the Eskimos are becoming more conscious of their Canadian ties - <sup>now</sup> ~~strengthened~~ strengthened by the first visit of a Governor-General to their bleak Northern homeland. HERE HE IS BEING ENTERTAINED WITH A TRADITIONAL "DRUM DANCE".
