Continuing a literary association, that highlighted ~~the~~ ~~Malvern~~ Malvern stages a "Shaw Centenary Week" - honouring the ~~great~~ <sup>BIRTH</sup>
~~of this great~~ ~~OF THE GREAT DRAMATIST.~~

Besides an exhibition and a festival of his plays, Shawian memories are revived by the mulberry tree that he planted on his eightieth birthday..

TWENTY YEARS AGO -
remember? SOUND

In twenty years, that sapling has grown in stature - a living monument to Shaw's greatness. And to-day, Wendy Hiller (who, in 1936, starred in "St Joan" and "Pygmalion") places a centenary plaque by the tree - overlooking the countryside that inspired <sup>"G.B.S." to</sup> ~~the great nature-lover~~ to write ~~so many great works~~ of his great works.
