

Johannesburg: Some Fourth Test highlights to applaud that great South African victory.

England's troubles began when Adcock had Bailey caught behind the wicket for thirteen.

Pulling England round, Insole (~~what an asset he has proved~~) contributed ^{unfortunate} forty-seven - before that, ~~misunderstanding~~ - and a tragic run-out.

Hopes rose when Skipper May finally got going - but Adcock bowled him for sixty-one.

A typical Wardle knock. Four. Six. Six - then-caught Goddard, off Tayfield.

A dogged forty-two by Denis Compton was invaluable. But South Africa's first-innings-lead of eighty-nine helped them to gain their first home victory over England for twenty-six years.
