Germany: Though they'd probably prefer a chilly reception, these four Arctic youngsters are getting a warm welcome at the Munich Zoo.

They're Polar Bear cubs, just ten months old. A sealing-ship brought them from their wild Arctic playground, to become the first polar bears in the Munich Zoo for thirty years.

Of course, they've still got to brush up ~~on~~ their behaviour...one shouldn't really scatch in public.

And with all the tit-bits around, sometimes their appetites rule their sense of balance.

Oh Well! the water was cold - and winter days are coming!

~~Travelling North~~

Travelling North, the Newsreel Camera visited a stud farm, near Frankfurt, where the annual "Stallion Show" - featured ^{some} ~~the~~ aristocrats of the animal world.

For ninety years, this farm has been producing obedient, highly-intelligent animals that can be trained for almost any task.

Despite ~~the advent of~~ mechanisation, the farmers in these hill-side areas - still prefer a good horse.

To round off the show - a reminder of the days when ~~four-horse-powered~~

the drivers of ~~four-horse-powered~~ ^{first} vehicles/decided that something should be done about the roads...
