

One-Man helicopter

From Paris comes the latest idea in one-man travel - the "Rotorcycle".

~~It's just the thing to beat those rush-hour queues - with its forty-five horse engine and a top speed of seventy miles an hour. There are no parking problems, either. The Rotorcycle can be stacked in the corner of the office - ~~and it can be assembled in three minutes, either with or without any tools~~ and, in three minutes it can be assembled, (without any tools)- ready for the journey home.~~

ZETA

London: The sixteen members of the brilliant Zeta team were honoured when Sir Edward Hulton presented the first Hulton Achievement Award to Dr. Peter Thonemann.

The silver trophy and medal goes to the individual or group that contributes most to British prestige. "Zeta" is, of course, the process for extracting unlimited cheap power from the sea.

~~When asked what it's like being married to a scientist, Mrs Ramsden said:~~

Mrs Ramsden, wife of another member of the Zeta team, described the home life of a "Zeta" wife. SOUND.

Matt Busby

Germany: Ten weeks after that tragic air ~~craft~~^{crash}, Matt Busby leaves the Munich hospital that has nursed him back to health.

The Manchester United manager expressed his gratitude to Professor Maurer - (who has received the C.B.E. from the Queen) and to all the ^{the} nurses for ~~their~~ devoted care they lavished on the injured players...

So Matt & his wife begin the journey home
~~Now - with a final wave - Matt (accompanied by his wife) made the long journey home, by train - hoping to lead the United into Wembley Stadium on Cup Final Day...~~ a journey which everybody hopes will take him to Wembley.
