

There was something to stir the imagination of every boy from five to seventy-five at this years Model Engineer Exhibition at ~~London's~~ <sup>the</sup> New Horticultural Hall ~~in Westminster, London.....~~

For 64 years Mr. Fitzgerald has been making models and this year he's got a tug <sup>which he is showing</sup> ~~to show proudly~~ to Alan Hames.....

Alan's own contribution to the 500 scale models in the exhibition, valued at £35,000, was a submarine.....

And <sup>quite obviously</sup> ~~it looks as though~~ Boats have a special fascination for famous author Nevill <sup>there was a visit from Australia.</sup> ~~Shute~~.....

Ah! The chance they've been waiting for. ~~Dr's~~ Do-it-Yourself - ~~and~~ <sup>though</sup> it looks as though some of these drivers <sup>may be safer OFF the</sup> ~~wouldn't be too safe on the~~ road.....

That's asking for trouble with so many small boys about the place. And the temptation was too much for this one <sup>"Just one touch - I promise I won't do any harm"</sup> ~~.....~~

Here's a ~~miracle~~ <sup>watch it add 2 and 2</sup> of the automation age. A 56 lb. working model of an electronic calculator <sup>very</sup> ~~It's really very clever but this time they're~~ not over-taxing its brain power and after a little effort ? ~~up comes~~ the answer..... Now - ask it?
