THE RUSSIAN OFFENSIVE.

From the battlefronts of Russia come these front line pictures. Actionful closeups of the fighting which is carrying the Red Army far beyond the expected winter line. German hopes of taking root and resting their weary divisions are answered by Marshal Stalin's relentless drives which are sweeping the Nazis further and further back.

Germans attempting to force a break through meet a withering fire from Red Army men established on the ridge. Every Nazi effort to snatch any local success ends in failure. They're being thoroughly whipped, and those that live know it. In the Crimea, the Germans are devilishly trapped between the Russians and the deep Black Sea.

These are the ingredients of victory which no one can deny is not far distant. This is the time when the Soviet is hurling her weight at the tottering enemy with ~~increased~~ redoubled energy. The time to relax is not even in sight.

Back of these scenes are the words of a Russian Official speaking in Moscow the other day. "We shall hit them as never before", he said. "Not one crime will be forgiven; They shall pay for everything". That is the resolve which backs up every Red Army soldier as he presses nearer and nearer the frontier of Germany. The brightest thought today is what lies in store for the Germans of Otto Bismarck; the Germans of Kaiser Wilhelm; the Germans of Adolf Hitler.
