Once upon a time there was a ~~ghost~~ ghost called George who haunted a disused brewert near Chalfont St. Giles. It was pretty dull for George, no other ghosts to play with, no one around to frighten and no beer. He wanted to do his hit, nobody seemed to want him, why should these sisst gremlins have all the fun. He was browned off. One day George went to the cinema to cheer himself up, when he went in they were showing ~~the picture~~ one of those official films, and what do you think it was about ?. See for yourself. Bones are a vital use in the war effort, they make explosives, glue which is used in the making of tanks, aircraft, ship and amunitions. Bonemeal to feed pigs and poultry and fertiliser for the land are also made from bone. Clean them and dry them when your oven is hot. 50,000 tons are needed ~~every~~ every year. "There you are" said George, "I knew they heeded me. Salvages here I come". Now George is in his happy haunting grounds, scaring the panzers off the Nazis. Ladies and gentlemen, there is a moral to this story, have you a skeleton in your cupboard, give it to salvage and have a clear concience.
