Whiteshirted England came up against brilliant gealkeeping by Franch gealie Da Rui in the international second battle at the Paris Gelembes Stadium, Haghand attacks crumbled as Da Rui seved from Carter and Magan. And new it's Lewbon's turn for a bang and it's Da Rui again with a terrific two-flated pumph onto

First blood to France as Prooff beat goalie Williams with a rising hall. And just to make the pill norm bitter - here's another goal from French winger, Wast. (And this is the game we taught the would). England's one goal come from a header by H agan - Seare, 2-1 to France.

The first of all Maydes we well in the pioture at Sostland's Courthill Smithy where a corresonial gathering unveiled a plaque to the memory of the man who invo ated the pedal blke a bundred years ago - Einspetrick MacMillan. In his time, they called him the devil on wheels. Whishered rider Jock Miller shows that there's planty of life yet in the forerunner of the Weldd's 70 million bikes.
