

Just before the end Hibs get goal No. 2 from an Ormond pass to Centre-forward Cuthbertson.

A Hibs triumph and a great day for Edinburgh.

Scottish visitors in Fjaligarden, Sweden. The occasion was the revival of a pre-war annual event - the Scotland versus Sweden curling match.

Scottish Bagpipes reinforced the Club Orchestra.

Viewing the Scottish-Swedish battle on the ice is 73 year old Scot, T. Brown.

Leading contestant from Scotland is Sir James Deaby Roberts. Players follow their throws sweeping the ice in front of the curling iron.

Next winter the Swedish team hope to play the return match on Scotland's curling rinks.

In London's Albany Club - the Bartenders' Guild meets to discover who can mix the perfect cocktail. In all there were 46 entries. Stage and screen star Sid Field comes along as one of the judges.

Itma's personality girl Lind Joyce is there to give the women's point of view.

On a day like this, Sid sticks closer than a brother.

Winning drink was called "Eight Bells." All the judges agreed - except one - Jack "Colonel Chinstrap" Train.