

101022P
47/25

MAN OF THE WEEK

Vegetable Racket

You won't find this sign on many greengrocery stalls these days. It's only on this one because two London Desert Bats decided to have a go at the present racket - vegetable prices. We'll know how it works - with Mrs. Brown having to pay fifteen bob for a pineapple she doesn't want in order to get sixpenneth of potatoes she does want. Feed Minister John Strachey says he can't control the price of vegetables. With cauliflowers 2/6 a piece and cabbages costing up to 4/- each, ex-Captain Jenkins and ex-Sgt Cooper found the only way out was to take a stand for fair prices. Good luck to 'em.

SOUND