GREEK KING BURIED IN ATHENS

In Athens, the funeral takes place of King George of the Hellenes. Recalled to the Greek throne by a plebiscite last September, the 57 year old King died suddenly of heart failure. Succeeding King George, is his 46 year old brother Paul walking behind the coffin with the boy-crown Prince Constantine. Twice exiled, the dead King spent 16 years away from his throne. After his country was overrun by the Germans, he came to London. With strong Republican trends in the country, the Greek monarchy has never been easy. It's for King Paul to make new friends for an unlucky throne.
