

CLANS GATHER AT BRAEMAR

To the skirl of bagpipes, Royal Braemar opens its Traditional Deeside gathering. For men from the Highlands, it's Scotland's own Olympiad - a day when Scots brawn and muscle demonstrate to the world their national sports. Old-timer McLelland makes the winning throw of the 22 pound hammer with a distance of 94 feet.

For the finale, up comes that purely Scottish contest - tossing the caber.

John Hunter makes a noble try, but misses a record throw...but the honour remains - for only the mighty test their skill at Braemar's gathering.
