OLD TIMERS SHOW HOW

Motorists put back the clock half-a-century to days when every driver was a dandy and motoring was the quickest way to a better world. It's the "Old Crocks" Run. The starter gives the word, and a turn-out of 111 veteran bone-shakers head south on the Londen-Brighton road.

The Rip Van Winkles of the highway (wakened after a 50 years sleep) need refreshment, like their drivers, at frequent intervals on the three-hour journey.

Breakdowns are plentiful along the 50-mile-route. Engine trouble puts seven cars out of the running. Another is disqualified as under age - and two more for exceeding the speed limit of 20-miles-an-hour. But, taking it easy, and helped up the hills, a record number of drivers complete the course.

Here's that breakdown again. If he doesn't get a move-on, the dealers 'll get him.....
