

2-442501
48/95

LONDON VARSITY HONOURS MR. CHURCHILL

Winston Churchill walks with past and present Vice-Chancellors, among them Lord Beveridge to the Senate House at the University of London, there to receive his Honorary degree of Doctor of Literature. In the man who himself chose the Army training of Sandhurst in preference to a University, the Public Orator honoured above all "his love for England and our democratic constitution." Solemn though the surroundings are in London's highest seat of learning "Doctor" Churchill is in his gayest mood.

SPEECH

London's own University honours a great man of letters - a still greater patriot.