ONE MINUTE NEWS

Colorado

Facing death below is a stranded herd of cattle, one of thousands marooned in America's Middle West by a paralyzing blizzard. Many steers have perished, frozen by the arctic cold. A flying rescue operation now aims to save the survivors, cut off by giant snowdrifts. A herd is sighted, and it's bale out! Bales of life-saving hay drop from the sky.

Fifteen hundred tons of hay are dropped in one of the strangest rescue dramas in history. The blizzard has taken a terrible toll - but speedy air action has stopped further losses.

Riviera

In France, too, freak weather has brought in its wake damage to property. A heavy storm sweeps away the Riviera sunshine and drives winter holidaymakers indoors.

Deprived of its eternal summer atmosphere, the millionaire's playground makes the best of the seven-day storm. Anyway, it's so much easier to find some scandal to talk about indoors.
