

London Tea Party

CHIMP CHAMPS ARE NO CHAMPS

The Chimps reopen the social season at the Zoo with a tea-party, the first in public for 10 years. All the penguins want jobs as waiters - and Little Willie just can't wait to sign on. At four, these indefatigable fun-makers, Susan, Compe, So-So and Sally are all set to show off a fancy line in etiquette. Hey, you; back in the queue!

Months of rigid training prepared the famous quartet for the party. But once in the public eye again, manners are forgotten and it's back to the law of the jungle.

Things get out of hand when So-So decides it's time for a little exercise. Don't blame the keepers - it happens in the best families.

Look - no hands!

Look - no locking! Finally, the maddest tea-party since "Alice in Wonderland" breaks up as Susan refuses to have her picture taken. Temperamental, these film stars!