

TABLE TENNIS

BERGMANN WINS AGAIN

At Wembley - the Table Tennis Championships of England. Dark-haired Richard Bergmann, the newly-crowned world champion, meets Michel Hagnenauer of France in the men's final. After a thrilling opening, Bergmann comes out leading two sets to one, and now turns on the pressure, in this, the decisive set. Though he loses this point, to make the score 20-8, the Englishman is now at his best and, with nonchalant ease, gets ready to smash home the winner.

England champion for the fourth time, Richard Bergmann keeps the title at home.

BASKETBALL

NEGRO STARS FOR BRITAIN

The Harlem Globetrotters - America's trickiest basketball team - amaze a record crowd in New York with their antics. The famed court jesters put their incredible skill to work against the Philadelphia Spars.

Scoring at will, the Globetrotters continue their bamboozling act in the second half.

Now, the Harlemites stop their monkey business long enough to score. And after that effort, they get down to it in earnest.

Gaining yet another in their long string of razzle-dazzle wins, the Negro stars show what will be in store for us during their exhibition tour of Britain.
