PEOPLE IN THE NEWS

The Duke and Duchess of Windsor sail for Europe on the "Queen Mary," ending a six months' visit to the U.S., Mexico and Canada. After a stay in France, they plan to visit England, where the Duke will continue writing his life story, and then back to America for Christmas.

You guessed it! It's another birdman - Rudolf Boehlen of Switzerland to be exact; and exact is the right word, because if Rudolf's made any mistakes in his calculations, somebody's going to miss her Swiss! He's got a special launching system of his own - to get over that little hesitation that's liable to get any of us at such a time. Just about six thousand feet up ... and there he goes!

And here he is safe on the ground. Great stunt merchants, these Swiss. He did his roll all right but he nearly ended in a jam.

In Tokyo the Imperial family attends the marriage of the Emperor's third daughter Princess Kazuko to a 50-shillings-a-week clerk, Toshimichi Takatsukasa. A former peer he lost his Royal status three years ago when Japan adopted a new constitution. A Shinto Priest performs the ceremony in the bridegroom's home. As a result of her marriage the Princess gives up her Imperial rank. Before the war it couldn't have happened, so Emperor Hirohito saw Mars acting as Cupid.
