DAYTONA

U.S. M/CYCLE CHAMPIONSHIP

At Daytona Beach, Florida, 111 got away for the start of the 200-mile A.M.A. motor-cycle classic - one of the world's most dangerous races. Averaging nearly 93 miles-an-hour, Dick Klamferth won on a Norton. Crashes were plentiful.

There's a $7,000 jackpot and the American title at stake and they're worth chancing a spill for. And anyway, almost as swift as the race is the ambulance service! As Nortons and Triumphs filled the first six places, it was a sweeping victory for British machines.
