

PARNELL WINS TROPHY RACE

It's flat out for Copse Corner in the heats for the "Daily Express" International Trophy Race. No. 1 in an Alfa-Romeo is the Argentine crack, Juan Fangio, who's just broken the lap record twice. No. 35 is Reg Parnell in his Thinwall Special Ferrari, not bothering about records just yet; No. 2 is Farina in another Alfa and he's smashing Fangio's new records. The final ought to be a cracker.

But first the Production Cars race, which means cars you can put your name down on the writing lists for. Here's Winterbottom's Fraser-Nash passing Buckley's Bristol.

Jacobs is going well in his M.G. Then Salvadori leaves the track.

Ambulance men find Salvadori suffering from a fractured skull and multiple injuries. His condition is critical.

A freak thunderstorm hits the track as the cars get away for the final of the International Trophy. Reg Parnell jumps into the lead as they head for Stew's Corner. Conditions are very bad and there'll be no records broken this time.

Racing is now impossible. The cars are signalled to stop and as he pulls into the pits, Reg Parnell learns he's declared the Trophy winner. No wonder he's smiling.
