The Open Golf Championship is held for the first time in Ireland at Portrush. Bobby Locke, open golf champion two years running, tries for his hat trick. Popular Norman Von Nida felt ill all day. He tore up his score card before the end of the round. On the other side of the Course, former champion Fred Daly shows he's still among the best in Britain. Don't say it, Fred! A "birdie?" An "eagle?" No, just a seagull who wants to watch Cerda of the Argentine who is running second.

Max Faulkner of Great Britain is on top of his form, playing superb golf.

And so after three years the Open Golf Championship comes back to this country. Well done Max and better weather next time.

A 22-year-old dream comes true as Brigadier Martin hands over the trophy. Max Faulkner faces a great golfing future - for himself and for his country.

Honley Regatta

At Honley, thirty countries compete in the Royal Regatta. A heavy Dutch crew gets ready for the Grand Challenge Cup. The Dutch race against the Lady Margaret eight from Cambridge and the crew is treated to one of the finest races in recent times.

A great triumph for a great crew from Cambridge.

Cambridge hurry to see their Tony Fox race for the Diamond Sculls against Larsen of Denmark, European champion. Larsen led all the way but Fox produced an amazing spurt to win a spectacular race.

Americans from Pennsylvania are the finalists against a German crew in the Thames Challenge Cup.

And what a race it is. First the Americans then the Germans ... But the Yanks pull it off.

But how would you like to be the winning cox.
