

THE QUEEN AT ST. GILES

In Edinburgh, in the grounds of the Palace of Holyroodhouse, the Queen meets 7,000 guests. Her Majesty is accompanied by Lord Roseberry as she mingles with her guests.

Among the guests are some Burmese members of parliament and Mrs. Ba Maung Chwin, also from Burma - a colourful group in their picturesque costumes.

At St. Giles Cathedral, the Queen's Bodyguard salutes as Her Majesty makes her way to the robing chamber to attend service in the Chapel of the Order of the Thistle. Founded nearly 270 years ago, Scotland's highest order of chivalry is dedicated to St. Andrew, her patron saint.

The Duke of Gloucester accompanies the Queen, who is Sovereign of the Order.
