

102014-C
52/88

GERMAN WATER BUS

All aboard the good ship "Brisk," aptly-named speedboat, the latest thing from German designers. Looks like the sort of pleasure craft they charge you a bob to go round the pier in when you're on your holidays, doesn't it? But just you wait till she gets up speed, then you'll find out just how wrong you are.

See what I mean? Both these little craft get up on their hind legs when the pace gets a bit hot - now they're almost skating. Although they don't look very big, they're used as water-buses, But they won't be seen much in Germany. They're all for export only - to Sweden.