

BABY BOKO"

Boko, the baby of the year, faces newreel cameras for the first time with her mother Mrs. Veronica Davies. Boko, short for Wariboko which means "she who will bring her parents greatness" was one of siamese twins born to Mrs. Davies in Nigeria. Following an operation in London to separate the babies, Boko's sister died. Now eighteen weeks old, Boko is doing fine say the doctors and nurses who look after her.

Hundreds of baby clothes and toys have been sent to Boko who will soon be flown home with her Mother. Now Mrs. Davies says she hopes it won't be long before baby Boko has a brother or sister to keep her company.
