QUEEN SORAYA SEES SPRING FASHIONS.

London's top mannequins curtsy low as Queen Soraya enters Hamilton House in Piccadilly for a fashion show. This is being specially staged by the Incorporated Society of London Fashion designers. Queen Soraya, it is noted still wears a bandage on her sprained ankle. With the accent on Spring, Victor Stibel introduces a flower-printed shantung day dress and parasol, and a green surah coat.

Model Jill Coats moves towards the Queen to give her a closer view. Keeping a weather eye open for the not-so-chilly months, designer Michael shows a yellow and white woven wool dress, with three quarter topcoat. Queen Soraya, who is recognised as one of the most perfectly-dressed women in the world, sees nearly fifty new British designs. A Norman Hartnell creation climaxes the show. Modelled by Lana, it is a crystal embroidered white tulle evening gown, with a fox-trimmed jacket - a shimmering finale to the royal display.
