IT'S HOTTER OVER THERE!

Do you think we've been having a heat wave? You should be on America's East Coast, where temperatures in the nineties bring out beachgoers in the millions. Everybody's getting away from it by getting together.

It isn't considered hot enough to remove parachutes, but almost everything else comes off. While the mercury goes up, the people go down to the sea in - well, as little as possible. Some prefer water inside.

Some prefer a stroll in the sun, though it's hard to leave the water - any water. Despite the evidence, somebody did walk.

There he is, second from the left.

The coolest pebble on the beach. Does anyone feel like counting them?
