EDINBURGH FESTIVAL OPENS.

Edinburgh's Ninth International Festival of Music and Drama promises to be the biggest yet, as a quarter of a million visitors cram the city for the opening. A popular event is the Army's contribution - the Edinburgh Tattoo, in the arena before the Castle Gate.

Massed Highland dancing is performed by men from ten different Scottish regiments. How many armies could put on a show like this?

These people from all over the world to see and hear the finest the world has to offer. And at such a glittering feast of music and showmanship, the soldiers of Scotland can take a proud place.
