U.S. FLEET IN THE MED.

Uncle Sam's sailors on patrol in the Mediterranean crisis area run into heavy weather, while they're getting the rations aboard from a supply vessel.

Don't worry - it's waterproof wrapped. The trolley line carries the supplies from deck to deck, and the warship's crew run to secure it.

As the American Sixth Fleet patrols the Mediterranean, these refrigerator ships - known as reefers - have the job of keeping the Fleet's larder stocked - whatever the weather.
