10 TENSE YEARS: FROM A-BOMB TO H-BLAST!

Warner Pathe News adds an awesome new chapter to its film record of our country's growing nuclear might -- from the first atomic test to the latest hydrogen blast.

As the time nears to trigger America's first air-dropped Hydrogen-bomb, Warner Pathe News shows spectacular films of the first Atom-bomb test -- "Operation Able" in June, 1946. Tracing a decade of nuclear development, unforgettable scenes show the explosion of the first Atom-bomb underwater -- "Operation Baker" in July, 1946 -- and the firing of the first Hydrogen-bomb -- "Operation Ivy" in November, 1952.

Now, in the most amazing films of all, Warner Pathe News records the historic H-bomb explosion in "Operation Redwing." The blast's brilliance washes the sky for miles around with the intensity of five hundred suns!

A terrifying sight -- even from an airplane fifty miles away -- the explosion is the equal of 10,000,000 tons of TNT. Here is power men have dreamed of for centuries -- come true in ten tense years.
