

NEW NATIONAL FILM THEATRE:

There's nothing quite like it anywhere else in the world - and incidentally, its equipment is second to none; it's the new home of Britain's National Film Theatre, and the stars (Jack Hawkins among them) are arriving for the official opening. Here's Kenneth More. Personalities from outside the film industry include Lord Hailsham. Other countries are represented - Italy by La Lollo herself.

Lord Hailsham greets the guest of honour - Princess Margaret, who is to perform the opening ceremony. Nothing less than a Royal inauguration would do justice to the occasion - for this fine new building on London's South Bank is the culmination of a dream which everyone in Britain who loves the cinema has helped to bring to fruition.

The Princess declares the Theatre open, and then Sir Lawrence Olivier presents the distinguished guests - film-makers and stars whose work often seen in this new home of all that is best in the art of the cinema.
