RING ROUND THE WORLD:

This factory at Stratford-on-Avon sends teapots and coffee-pots all over the world - and recently the firm's customers got a very unusual cable. It said: "Please search crates for a diamond and platinum ring which means a lot to one of our employees". It was 25-year-old Evelyn Blake who lost her engagement ring while she was packing shipments for abroad - and it might have gone anywhere!

Evelyn is called in by her boss, Mr. Bernard Joseph, to receive the precious ring back. It was found by a firm 3,000 miles away in White Plains, New York. Now her only problem is explaining to Customs how it came to be exported and re-imported! But the world-wide search has a happy ending.
